Foreword

The 2007 Episcopal Clerical Directory represents further progress toward our goal of providing the Episcopal Church with the most comprehensive data on clergy and institutions possible. Employing the resources of the Church Pension Group's Common Reference Database, this forty-second edition of the ECD—a combined print and CD-ROM volume—includes biographical information on 18,310 clergy in good standing as of the date indicated on page 2 and 7,945 institutions.

Since 2002, Church Publishing Incorporated—as an affiliate company of the Church Pension Group—has been involved in the building and enhancing of the Common Reference Database, a significant undertaking that enables all of the affiliates of the Pension Group to "read off the same page" about the clergy and institutions and thus to serve them with an even greater degree of efficiency. As with previous editions, we have used the 2007 clergy and institutional update questionnaires as a vehicle for collecting and verifying information that we share among the affiliates, including information that will never be published in any version of the Episcopal Clerical Directory. As any data-gathering and integrating project is never without its challenges, we count on our clergy and institutions to inform us when incorrect information appears.

The companion CD-ROM incorporates all of the clergy biographical information in the print version as well as hyperlinks to the parishes and institutions in which our clergy serve. Institutional e-mail addresses and website URLs have been included, where provided. The CD functions on both Macintosh and Windows platforms and is fast and easy to use.

As always, the biographical information that appears in all versions of the Directory has been submitted by each cleric. Clergy who responded to the 2007 clergy information update questionnaire are identified in boldface in the printed book and with a "Responded to Survey" field on the ECD-ROM. Because we receive updates from clergy and institutions nearly every day, new information submitted after the production deadline for this edition will be available online at the ECDPlus website: www.ecdplus.org.

Again in this edition, multiple current positions, including non-parochial ministry-related positions such as health care, school, and military chaplaincies, are shown. All current positions are listed near the beginning of each biography to help the reader discern at a glance each cleric's present ministry. These positions appear with the most recent appointment first.

Clergy who died since the 2005 revised edition of the Directory was released, but whose death was reported prior to the date indicated on page 2, have their date of death noted in their biographical entries.

Ordination data and changes in canonical residence are provided to Church Publishing by the Recorder of Ordinations after written confirmation from the diocese on file. Biographies of clergy who have transferred into the Episcopal Church from another province of the Anglican Communion, or who have been received from the Roman Catholic Church or another church in full communion with the Episcopal Church, do not include the dates of their ordinations to the diaconate and priesthood, nor the names of the non-Episcopal Church bishops who ordained them; instead, the name of the Episcopal Church bishop who accepted their transfer or received them is listed, along with the date on which that transfer or reception took effect.

As has been the case in each edition of the Episcopal Clerical Directory since the late 1990s—and because of our constant concern to protect clergy against identity theft—we no longer publish the cleric's mother's name at birth, as provided on the questionnaire, in the biographical information.

Further, as we began to do with the 2005 edition of the Directory and in response to requests from an increasing number of clergy, it is Church Publishing's policy that we no longer publish information on previous marriages, even those that resulted in children. The number of children, if any, from a cleric's previous marriage will continue to be displayed.

I am particularly grateful to Chris Thorman, CPG's director of software development, for undertaking the daunting task of reworking completely the process by which data are extracted from the CRDB and are displayed in the book and on the CD-ROM. Zeljka Majetic, CPG web developer, designed this year's new, improved web response forms and worked quickly and tenaciously to debug the forms when the newly released Internet Explorer 7 web browser generated undefined "errors" that prevented users from completing the last step in the process. Martin Hossfeld, director of the CRDB project, and Arsen Housepian, CRDB programmer, worked tirelessly to solve irregularities identified by David Kisling and Jay Rozendaal during nearly two months of quality assurance research on each successive extract from the database. David also oversaw the small army of seminarians, seminarian spouses, and faculty offspring from General Theological Seminary who brought their familiarity with the church to the task of entering the data submitted on the paper questionnaires by clergy and institutions. Without all of these people, this project could not have succeeded.

Faithfully,
Susan T. Erdey
Editor
