EXPLANATION:

The Indigenous Theological Training Institute, an outgrowth of the former Episcopal Council on Indigenous Ministries, will coordinate a consultation to be held in Oklahoma in 2010. This consultation will provide follow-up to the a previous consultation in February of 2008 at which several bishops and many Indigenous leadership gathered to discuss development of ordained and lay leadership in Indigenous communities within The Episcopal Church of the United States. While the consultation of 2008 was called specifically to gain input on theological education for indigenous communities, several issues arose that are important for continuing the self-determining ministry that ECCIM promotes. ITTI has asked ECCIM to walk with them in this important journey.
