

Twenty-sixth Annual Report of the

Woman's Auxiliary

to the Board of Missions

May, Nineteen Hundred and Ten

Presidents of parish branches are asked to consider this annual report at one of their early autumn meetings.

St. Matthew's Day, September 21, the anniversary of the Bishop's Consecration, is commended to all Auxiliaries as a day of special consecration.

The Annual Meeting is held in May at the time of the Diocesan Council.

The Semi-Annual Meeting is held in the autumn at a place selected by the Bishop.

Each well-organized branch is expected to pay the following: Dues to Diocesan Auxiliary, two dollars per annum; a pledge—any amount—for the Woman's Auxiliary Diocesan Missionary in charge of Trinity Church, Bloomington; a pledge—any amount—to general Missions, to be applied on the Auxiliary Apportionment Fund.

At the Annual Meeting of 1910 it was voted that each branch pay one dollar annually into a fund created by the Auxiliaries of the Fifth Department, said fund to be used for Church extension within this Department. This is known as the "Milwaukee Plan."

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY was created by the Board of Missions during the session of the General Convention October, 1871, in the city of Baltimore, and approved by the Board of Missions at the General Convention of 1880, to assist it in meeting its regular appropriations and to aid all missionary work of the Church in any direction and in any way that may be recommended by the Board or endorsed by the several Bishops.

The Indianapolis Branch was organized in 1884. The Junior Department was authorized by the General Board in 1889. The Little Helpers' Branch was incorporated into the Indianapolis Branch in 1902.

The Twenty-Sixth Annual Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary was held at Grace Pro-Cathedral, Indianapolis, May 10, 1910.

The Diocesan Board meets at 10 o'clock on the first Thursday of each month—October to June inclusive—at Christ Church, Indianapolis, parish house. All parochial presidents and ex-officio members of the Board have the privilege of attending, but do not vote.

Prayers for Missions.

Lord of all power and might, who rulest in heaven and in earth, and canst turn the hearts of men after the counsel of Thine own will; we humbly pray Thee to awaken in all the members of our Missionary Society such a deep sense of their duty to maintain and set forward the work of missions, that by their faith and zeal Thy Holy Name may be glorified, and the bounds of Thy Kingdom enlarged; through Jesus Christ, our only Saviour and Redeemer. Amen.

O Lord Jesus Christ, who in the days of Thy flesh didst accept the service of faithful women who ministered unto Thee of their substance; be pleased, we humbly ask, to bless our endeavors to aid and encourage missionaries. Put into our hearts the things we should do and say to promote Thy glory. Grant that we may never be discouraged under difficulties, but go forward in faith and hope, looking unto Thee. Have pity on those who know Thee not, and visit them with Thy salvation. Christ, hear us, and answer this, our prayer, for Thine own Name's sake. Amen.

A Prayer at Mid-day.

Blessed Saviour, Who at this hour didst hang upon the Cross, stretching forth Thy loving arms; grant that all mankind may look unto Thee and be saved; through Thy mercies and merits Who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost ever one God, world without end. Amen.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS, MAY 18, 1910.

Grace Pro-Cathedral.

Rev. Father in God and Women of the Auxiliary:

Your faithful and painstaking Corresponding Secretary has given you the result of the last year's work in each of our twenty-two auxiliaries. We are but a small band, gaining not rapidly, our offerings our achievements about the same from year to year, and yet loyal to the great idea of the Auxiliary, and increasing in knowledge and influence. Let us, for a moment, forget ourselves in a consideration of the great body to which we belong.

There is a woman in history of whom I have often wished we might have been told more. It was that seller of purples who lived in Thyatira—her name was Lydia. Lydia, we are told, worshiped God, but when Paul and Barnabas, obedient to that great call from Macedonia, landed in Lydia's city she, first of all, opened her heart to the wondrous new Gospel of love and peace which these Apostles were telling for the first time. She and her whole household were baptized. She was probably a woman like unto many of us—a busy woman, a mother and caretaker, and this wonderful story, which seemed to show her how to bear the burden of life in a new and better way, made for itself a place at once in her life. "She attended to the things which were spoken of Paul," the Bible tells us.

It is very natural for those who are interested in a thing to want to claim for it all things good, so, as the Masons claim Solomon for their founder, and every organization searches history for some sponsor, so I want to and do claim Lydia for the first Auxiliary woman. She didn't know it, but she was. She, in the zeal of this beautiful new faith, must have done those same three essential things which we are trying to instil into our own society almost nineteen hundred years after her great example. Lydia must have prayed for missions, for there were nothing but missions then. We are told that "the churches were established in the faith and increased in number daily." Lydia must have learned and studied about missions, for Paul and Barnabas abode in her house, and we all know how our zeal goes up by leaps and bounds when we have a clergyman staying with us, and Lydia must have given to missions, for that was a vital part of the religion of the early Christians. And so, my dear ladies, our society began with the very beginning of Christianity in Europe; let us remember our honorable heritage. Coming on down the ages, both sacred and secular writings abound in women who were "unorganized" Auxiliary women.

The Church must ever have been helped by bands of women, but in 1820 the first missionary society in America is recorded. Bishop Kemper wrote that he was cheered by the contributions of women. In 1843 Dr. Breck records two large boxes sent from Philadelphia and Boston and in 1846 he received help from a band of women called "The Seabury Society." In 1864 Bishop Whipple organized in Massachusetts "The Dakota League," and in 1868 a Philadelphian founded "The Indian's Hope," a society—presumably—to aid the Indians; in this year also was organized the "Ladies' Domestic Relief Association."

In 1871 Miss Mary Emery, afterwards Mrs. Twing, sent letters to two thousand clergy relative to forming the Woman's Auxiliary and became its Secretary. In 1876 Miss Julia Emery succeeded Mrs. Twing as Secretary and has been a tireless worker for us ever since.

From the C. Missions House Miss Emery keeps in touch with 4,315 branches of the Auxiliary, including some 50,000—or more—Church-women. She has 1,000 Diocesan officers to instruct. Last year she assigned 3,654 boxes to the various auxiliaries and had them all accepted and filled, representing a value of $195,000.

Miss Emery works constantly according to the possible capacities of the various branches, inspiring, urging, stimulating, systematizing and suggesting; last year these wise methods of hers secured $325,000 in cash from the entire Auxiliary. She has the supervision of Woman's, Junior and Babies Branch in sixty-six Dioceses and twenty-six Missionary districts.

Every three years she has the great United Offering to manage. Altogether, it is not too much to say that, under God, Miss Emery has been the soul of the Auxiliary.

I have dwelt thus upon our General Secretary because I find that many Auxiliary women know nothing of her or of much outside our own small Diocesan organization, and while on the subject of Miss Emery, I want to speak of her great tour of the world, made last year, in order that she might see for herself what her beloved Auxiliary is really doing in those places where for years we have been sending money. Miss Emery, through the generosity of friends, went to England during the Pan-Anglican Council and then started on her tour lasting for ten months. She visited the Missionary districts of the Church in China, Japan, the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands and saw every institution that the Church has planted in them and almost all the missions that have been established. In the month after her return she visited the Missionary districts of Sacramento, Olympia, Spokane, East Oregon, Utah and Nevada. In this way she saw the results of the Woman's Auxiliary as she had never seen them before. Everywhere she was received with warm greeting by Christianized heathens, and in Wakayama the Missionary in greeting her said:

"We also have the Woman's Auxiliary in connection with the Church in this country, which has been organized after the good example shown us by the American sisters; and even though our work is still in its infancy and may be almost nothing compared with that in the Church in the United States, still we aim high and pledge ourselves that we shall do our very best to be of some use for the work of the Heavenly Kingdom in this Oriental part of the earth."

Among the "high aims" of many of these women in the far East is one too often overlooked by the women of our Western and Christian land, that union with the Auxiliary shall emphasize the primary duty of the Christian herself to strive to make her neighbor woman Christian.

Among these may be named, in addition to the Twing Memorial at St. Mary's Hall, St. Mary's Orphanage and the Training School and St. Elizabeth's Hospital, in Shanghai, and St. Paul's Cathedral Church, Hankow; the Elizabeth Bunn Memorial Hospital, Wuchang; the Church at Hanchuan, the children's ward of St. James's Hospital, Anking; St. James's Church, Wuhu; the Gaylord Hart Mitchell Kindergarten, Akita; the church at Sendai; the wards in St. Barnabas's Hospital, Osaka, and the class-rooms in St. Paul's College, Tokyo.

And as in buildings were shown the results of Auxiliary gifts, so also among clergy, catechists and teachers, and among the wives of the clergy, were found those who had been trained in the Mission schools upon scholarships given by the Woman's Auxiliary.

But not only was the fruit of special gifts and of annual offerings of the Auxiliary and its members, so often seen, but the Triennial United Offering of the Woman's Auxiliary was constantly evidenced. In 1901 that offering, which was then $101,000, was divided among the Missionary Bishops, each receiving a share amounting to $3,950. The Bishops reported, after receiving this gift, how they thought best to dispose of it, and the Mission buildings in Kumagai and Wakamatsu, the land on which the fine mission property stands at Soochow and Wusih, the Episcopal residence in Sacramento, the new St. Mark's Hospital and Training School and Rowland Hall, Salt Lake; St. Margaret's School and St. Luke's Hospital, and the beautiful renovated St. Michael's, in Boise; the sites of mission lots and rectories, and the meeting with the missionary clergymen in Spokane District, all are associated with the gift which was received with so warm a welcome by our Bishops eight years ago. But by far the most important connection which the Woman's Auxiliary, through its United Offering, has with the mission field is by reason of the woman missionaries whom that offering supports. During her year of travel the Secretary met sixty-six of these workers—teachers, nurses, physicians and others, doing direct evangelistic work—six of the number being deaconesses from the Philadelphia and the New York schools.

The $224,000 given by the Woman's Auxiliary in 1907 has placed all these and ninety-seven others in the mission field to-day, while $10,000 of the amount has built in Sendai a training school for mission women and a home for foreign women workers, whose foundation Miss Emery saw when in the Tokyo District.

Truly, when we contemplate the Auxiliary as Miss Emery has shown us in this tour, we must recognize the privilege of being one link in this golden chain which reaches across continents and binds together Christian womanhood in a duty at once beautiful and holy. But we must now revert to our own affairs.

In the Middle West, where many of us were born, the atmosphere of missions has not penetrated until lately. We have probably been too much missions ourselves, we may claim—but this, of course, is not the Christian attitude. It was not Lydia's attitude.

The Bishop of Marquette, in a pamphlet published a few years since, called the "States of the Old Northwest as a Missionary Field," says: "Any part of our country where the Church is weaker than the average is natural missionary ground for us." He then proceeds to review the condition of these Middle Atlantic States of ours. Indiana, he says, began with the lowest and most discouraging proportion of church people. In 1850 she had one communicant to each 1,475 people; now she has one to each 393. He then adds: It "is very creditable to somebody that the Church is still alive." Here speaks the Hoosier greatness. The same spirit which took this great natural domain and subdued it to the needs of civilization; the spirit which hewed its forests, cleared its fields, drained its swamps, built its bridges and made it stand fair among its sister commonwealths, that was the spirit which kept the Church alive. That was the somebody to whom credit must be given that we now have as many churches as we have—even though there are forty counties in which the Church is unknown. And a great deal of that somebody who kept the Church alive for us were the splendid Churchwomen who came into this commonwealth early in the last century, and who from Ft. Wayne to Evansville planted the Church for us, their posterity. As they, through love and self-denial, helped to leave us the Church that we might have its benefits, so it remains to us not only a Christian, but an honorable and womanly duty to conserve and strengthen that Church for our children and their children.

To this end the twenty-two branches, inclusive of some five hundred women, are working now. You all know the Auxiliary duties; You know that as separate Auxiliaries we send boxes, we pay our dues to the Diocesan Board, we give specials; as united Auxiliaries we help maintain a missionary in the college town of Bloomington, we pay our apportionment toward General Missions we give to the United Offering.

During the past year it has been our privilege to be of unusual service in assisting the beautiful new church in Bloomington—a point selected by the Bishop because of the hundreds of college students whom we hope the Church may reach. Beside the several hundreds of dollars paid in from pledges by separate Auxiliaries, the Board has given to the Bishop $100 in money to help with the furnishings of the church. The Epiphany Gift of gold and silver, representing over a hundred women, was sent to J. Lamb & Co. and made into a beautiful Communion service, representing a value of over $100. This gift was consecrated at the opening service of Trinity Church, Bloomington, on April 19.

The dues of $2, of which each branch pays yearly, forms a contingent fund from which at times the Board makes a small gift. From this fund lately was made a gift of $10 to St. Philip's Mission, Indianapolis. From this fund was bought the banner which will be presented to the Juniors this afternoon. From this fund we have in the past made gifts to St. George's Mission, to Trinity Church, Lawrenceburg; to St. Matthew's, Bedford; we have made gifts of vestments and sent sums in answer to various appeals. I am being thus specific in order that you may know what is done with your money and feel that pleasure to which you are entitled as donors.

In the apportionment made each year by Miss Emery, this year we have failed, unless by September 1 we catch up. But being United Offering year, I fear we will not do so. We are asked to give about $75 for the Woman's, $50 for the Juniors, $25 for the Babies' Branch each year to General Missions. Last year we exceeded this slightly: The Babies' Branch always pays its apportionment; this year the Woman's and Junior Auxiliary have fallen far below their shares.

Mrs. Francis made a successful innovation in Junior work this year. She had a convention of their own, with service, luncheon and business meeting, at Christ Church, lasting all day, and hopes to establish this. She feels that a day devoted to these affairs is very stimulating and makes them seem less an adjunct to the Woman's Branch than an individual and important society. Mrs. Francis early in the spring asked twelve branches of the Juniors to prepare a Mission Scrapbook, each branch selecting a subject and preparing a section. The Diocesan Board offered a banner to that branch preparing the neatest and best section, as judged by a committee. During the Laymen's Missionary Meeting Mrs. Francis asked Dr. Hopkins, John W. Wood and Bishop Francis to adjudge the prize. The Scrap-book will be sent to Cincinnati for the Junior exhibit in October.

Let us arefully cultivate our Juniors. We hear much about deforestation and re-forestration at present. Let us too be thinking about it. Who are to take the places of the old trees? Let us nurture the young oaks and the seedlings tenderly. Some day they will be lending strong willing and well-trained hands to the work which we are trying to do.

The careful work of Mrs. Francis and Miss Jewett in Auxiliary propaganda should meet the gratitude of every Churchwoman.

I have said that our Auxiliary is a link in a golden chain, and yet as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, we must ever exert ourselves that our link be worthy of the place and equal to its demand. That we are small is not so much; but we must be staunch; we must do what we promise and undertake. Not only in the prosaic funds, boxes and apportionments, but in the higher things, which our pledge as Auxiliary women entails: To pray! To learn! These are the great things. When we pray and when we learn, then the giving takes care of itself. Let us keep our ears listening for the higher things—beyond the sordidness, the striving, the materialism—let us ever hear the voice of the Church, and hearing, heed it.

It was a great thing that poor Mr. Cook did when he did not discover the pole. His first thought was of his country—he planted his country's flag to mark the achievement of years of struggle. The Auxiliary Woman should carry in her heart the flag of the Church, and wherever she may be, whatever she may do, she should float that flag wherever it may be seen and loved of men. For after all, this is the real meaning of the Auxiliary women—the undaunted and unswerving soldiers of Christ.

REPORT OF JUNIOR AUXILIARY.

The illness of Mrs. Francis makes it impossible to give a detailed account of the grand work. Suffice it to say, it has been a fine and profitable year. Boxes of beautiful clothing were carefully prepared by the Juniors for the children of a missionary in Nevada. Their value may be seen in the report.

The competition in making Missionary Scrap-books was entered by eight branches, all producing admirable work. The prize banner was awarded to St. Paul's, Indianapolis, with St. John's, LaFayette, and St. Paul's, New Albany, receiving honorable mention. Christ Church, Indianapolis, was commended for its artistic decoration.
