Rt. Rev. Phillips Brooks,

Bishop of Massachusetts.

JANUARY 23, 1893.

AT a special meeting of the Massachusetts Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions, the following memorial to Bishop Brooks was accepted by a rising vote and placed on record:—

Few and simple must our words be, as we speak of the loss to this society of its friend and Bishop, the Rt. Rev. Phillips Brooks.

Surely no work in the whole church could be nearer to him than that which we are set to do. He, whose love for man, knowing no distinction of land, or race, or caste, made the whole world one, whose consuming passion it was to show to all men the light and love of God in the face of Jesus Christ, could give nothing but blessing and support to us.

And how generously he gave! We remember the ready ear, the quick response, the frank and genuine respect, the gentle courtesy, the spiritual sympathy and support, which he gave unstintedly.

As he spoke to us of our work, "the great, deep spiritual meaning of it all rose up and took possession of us with its power." We might multiply devices and alter methods, but "the living spirit was within the wheels," and the simplicity of the missionary idea—the love of God going forth to save—put all minor things in their true place. Through the transparent purity of the life he lived among us, we saw the Lord. In his death we are not comfortless, for all Love, and Life, and Work are one, and what know we?

"So many worlds, so much to do,
So little done, such things to be!
How know we what had need of thee,
For thou wert strong, as thou wert true?"

We pray that the memory of his passionate devotion, his undaunted courage, his gentle patience, his childlike reverence, his utter consecration, may inspire us now and always, that we may so do our humble work for the church he loved, that Christ, his Lord and ours, may draw near and abide with us forever.

BOSTON, Jan. 30, 1893.

SURE that the members of the Woman's Auxiliary throughout the diocese must desire to express, by some fitting offering, their gratitude to God for the great life whose loss we mourn, the Standing Committee requests that gifts for such a memorial be sent, as soon as may be, to the general treasurer, Miss S. J. Chase, 79 Newbury Street, Boston, Mass.

Sure that the offering will be spontaneous and generous, the committee name no special sum to be raised. Two things only they desire—that both the gift and the use of it may be as catholic as the spirit of him whom we seek to honor.

The gift shall be catholic. Therefore let every woman in the diocese, whose every village and town was dear to its bishop, send her offering, however small, that the memorial may be the loving tribute of many.

The use of it shall be catholic. Whatever sum is raised, will be held as the Bishop Brooks Memorial Fund. The income of this will be used each year by the several departments of the Auxiliary in turn, at the discretion of those in charge, so that each new year shall bring to some little point in the great mission field—in our own diocese, in the far West or South, in Mexico, or in distant foreign lands—some help and cheer, some ministry of Christ, given in loving memory of him who was in deed and truth our missionary bishop.

It is requested that those to whom this statement comes, will make it known to others.

BY ORDER OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE.

BOSTON, Feb. 15, 1893.

MASSACHUSETTS BRANCH OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

SIXTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT.

WE offer to-day the sixteenth Report of our Branch of the Auxiliary to those whose constant support and faithful work have made such a record possible—for it is one of good cheer. As we attempt to summarize the reports of the various districts, rendered by their Vice-Presidents, we dread lest the condensed statement, stripped of attractive detail, should fail to represent the glow of hopefulness and courage with which they shine.

First of all, we mention the creation of a new district. For four years the parishes of Taunton, Fall River and New Bedford have held united missionary meetings and felt their growing wings. Now, with Miss Rodman as Vice-President, twenty-two parishes are banded together for mutual helpfulness and support of mission work, as the South Eastern District.

We wish that all parishes or guilds that now stand aloof, and fear the loss of individuality if they join hands with the Auxiliary, could read the Report of the Vice-President of the Berkshire District, as she declares that no one can overstate the good done by the local missionary meetings of the Auxiliary, which bring together willing helpers in the good cause, who can in no other way come in touch with their fellow-workers and gain the inspiration which such fellowship gives. In this district the "Elizabeth Stuart Newton" Scholarship in Shanghai is almost completed; one Junior Auxiliary has withdrawn from the work only because it has expanded into another sort of activity.

From the Worcester District, also, Mrs. Bigelow writes of the influence of the Auxiliary in small parishes, where it naturally becomes the centre of missionary activity. Missionary information is eagerly sought, and where this is true we know that giving is the natural reaction.

Springfield is always a strong District and sends its usual vigorous Report. A meeting at Greenfield rejoiced not only in addresses from Mr. Pott of China, Archdeacon Joyner and Miss Loring, but in reports from three Junior Auxiliaries, and a unique and flourishing "Boys' Annex," which is doing capital work.

Most of the parishes in eastern Massachusetts are able to join in our monthly meetings in Boston by the presence of their delegates. We wish very much that our friends from distant parts of the diocese would so plan their trips to Boston that they might be with us on the third Wednesday of the month. May we beg them, when they do come, to make themselves known to us.

Ninety-six parishes are now associated with our Society. We cannot say too often that our Woman's Auxiliary is nothing but the organized expression of the missionary work of the Churchwomen of Massachusetts. By all means, let each parish society or guild choose the methods most suited to its circumstances and possibilities, but we do believe that there is not only the inspiration of fellowship, but economy of force in association with the simple organization of our Society. We recognize the possible dangers of organization, but we care deeply for the missionary idea, and we know the value of cooperation. If it be our one pure desire that, through our work, the comfortable Gospel of Christ shall speed a little more swiftly through this great, needy world, we shall be neither stupidly sluggish nor unduly aggressive, but filled with the serene enthusiasm which works by the divine contagion of consecrated love.

Several changes in our Standing Committee must be noted. Though, to our great regret, we lose for several months the presence of our President, we shall be glad still to claim her as ours, and to share her responsibilities among us, as best we can, till she returns to reassume them. For our Secretary, too, it has been necessary to make provision, and Miss Ball has kindly consented to serve in Miss Ellicott's place. The Mexican Committee is obliged to part permanently with its Treasurer, Miss Hayden, and a new choice must be made.

Each department will render the report of its special work, but the "United Offering" surely belongs to us all. One year of the three has slipped by, and the statement of the Treasurer, Mrs. Woods, will show what the women of Massachusetts have done this year towards the endowment of a missionary bishopric, which is to be the United Offering of the great Woman's Auxiliary throughout the country at the Convention of 1895. Let us recognize how effective is the use of mite boxes and the regular setting aside of small sums, and not leave, till the last of the three years, our part of the work.

Our printed report will contain the Bishop Brooks Memorial leaflet — our word of sorrow and gratitude in presence of our great loss. It was intended that copies of this leaflet should be supplied to every parish in the diocese, in sufficient numbers to make known to all women the plan of the Memorial Fund. For various reasons many parishes have not received the circulars, but they will be sent, or may be obtained from the General Secretary. We who love and would honor Bishop Brooks know, and rejoice to know, how many parishes, missions, schools, hospitals, not only in our own diocese or our own land, but far over seas, have, during the past year, secured these special and local memorials — pathetic tokens of grateful love — given in his name. In choosing the Bishop Brooks Fund as the form of our Memorial, we were glad to recognize that it was to be a permanent, vital and growing thing—like his own power. We believed that, from year to year, without special appeal, certainly without pressure, gifts, small and large, would be added to the fund, which should thus each year do, not only some fresh, new work, but some greater work for the Kingdom of Christ—stretching out hands of blessing far and near, in feeble following of our bishop's world-wide sympathy and love.

For the Committee,

LUCY R. WOODS.

DOMESTIC DIVISION.

THE weeks, and the months, and the year have flown by since the Secretary of the Domestic Division of this Branch of the Auxiliary read to you her annual report of the work which you were doing. Now another report is brought before you, and what shall it say? Good work has been done? Yes, the figures tell us that, and we know that even they cannot tell the whole truth. They cannot show us pictures which hide behind them, of discouraged hearts far away made courageous, and tired hands rested, by the work which consecrated hearts and hands here have offered to God and their fellow men. Neither can they show us the fruit which the prayers and the loving thoughts have borne, and which only God sees. Let the work of the new year be a sacrifice offered to God, and may the prayer and the loving thought, which is the sweet-smelling savor, never be wanting.

The character of the work has been much the same as in time past. Clothing has been sent to the interesting and the uninteresting missionary household, and praise is due to the many brave parishes which have dared to grapple with the necessities of the unmarried man who in this unique position finds himself very unpopular.

The clerical suit is no longer a bugbear, for parishes have learned that, contrary to all tradition, they can by a little effort do great things. A clerical suit is surely a great thing to a poor missionary.

The surplice and altar linen, like the clerical suit, is a terror of the past, for no parish hesitates to avail itself of the very efficient and ever ready help of the Altar Society.

The good work which has been done by the Massachusetts Altar Society may be seen by the Report of the President, Miss Clara V. Parker. Ninety-nine articles or sets have been sent to sixty-five stations, or clergymen, in twenty-nine States or Counties. Value, $635.65.

A meeting of the domestic delegates from the several parishes was called in September. The attendance at this meeting was very satisfactory, and a pledge of $500 was made to Bishop Brooke for his work in Oklahoma. A pledge of $100 for the education of a deaconess, and the promise for the work of the coming year, was generous.

The Diocesan work which was undertaken at the beginning of the year has been accomplished. Our pledge of $300 to the Church in Dalton has been redeemed, and the sum of $400 advanced by Bishop Brooks to Chicopee, has been returned.

One hundred dollars was sent to the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Haverhill, and we hope to send more, so that the parish house may be free from debt.

Various sums have been contributed to other diocesan objects. We feel that something has been done in our own borders, and we look for a still more extended work.

Hospitals and schools through the West have been supplied with the various things which are necessary to their existence. Some noble boxes have been sent in these directions.

As the summer days which have just passed give us shadow with the sunshine, so, in the year just gone, "sounds of sadness midst our joyful strains are borne." As a part of the diocese we have suffered much in the loss of our blessed Bishop, and as a part of the Auxiliary we have suffered by the death of Mrs. Albert H. Hoyt, who has always worked with us so ably and so willingly. Besides these we have lost a devoted friend, one closely associated with us in our domestic work. Most of us remember Miss Mary E. W. Jocelyn, who for several years was secretary of the Domestic Division of the Massachusetts Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary. Miss Jocelyn has died since our last annual meeting, and it is with mingled sadness and pleasure that I tell you how she filled her position as secretary most faithfully, wisely and successfully. When sickness compelled her to resign the position, she still, though often suffering pain, and always far from well, came to the meetings. Almost to the last day of her life, she did with her might any missionary work which her hands found to do. Her hands found much to do, as willing hands always have since the beginning, and her works do follow her. She died in the Lord, and blessed are those dead.

As we look out to the coming year we have every reason for hopefulness. Work to be done is increasing on every side, and we know that workers can always be found to do the work. Let us pray to God for eyes that see, for wisdom and for willing hearts, that we may be ready to do well his bidding.

For the Committee,

KATHARINE CLINTON KIDNER,
Secretary.

INDIAN AND COLORED PEOPLE'S DIVISION.

IT is to be hoped that reports are in general more satisfactory to those who hear them, than to those who write them. Here is the Committee of the Dakota League in living, warm, personal communication with men and women who, from Alaska to Florida, are dealing hand to hand with the great multitudes, red and black, who are struggling up from generations of savage life or of slavery, from ignorance and superstition, to "the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ." Faith which worketh by love is the power, and divine hope the constant saving grace of our missionaries. We wrong them when we strike the minor key and recount only their deprivations or sufferings. We wrong them if we make that dreary or monotonous which is full of life and variety. Yet, there is unity as well as variety:—schools, hospitals, missions, churches. These are our institutions; through these comes personal contact of life with life; these we must sustain.

In the Indian field, two schools are our especial charge,—St. Mary's and St. Paul's; for St. Elizabeth's we do what we can. In the South the educational work is always pressing. Scholarships are needed varying from five to seventy dollars, while boxes of supplies must be annually sent. Last year's work in this direction was most satisfactory.

We have done something for the Bishop Whipple Indian hospital; gifts have been sent to the physician-priest in his efforts to minister to his Indian people in the diocese of Fond du Lac, while among the colored people the hospital work in Columbia has especially enlisted our sympathy. Archdeacon Joyner writes: "We want to keep Dr. Glenton till a few hours before she sails for Alaska. She will never be in any place in this sick world where she is more needed than here. You ought to send some stout man out to seals and icebergs." Must Columbia, South Carolina and Alaska share one woman, when Mr. Chapman begs for teachers and nurses, and amid the "almost desperate conditions" of his work, writes of the "present joy" that does not permit him to dwell on the trials of the past?

The work among colored people is feeling the benefit of that wise organization which has been the blessing of the Indian missions almost from their beginning. The work of the Commission in overseeing the field, directing attention to important points, concentrating force in regions where it will most tell, has given a clearness to this whole department which is very stimulating. Long years of faithful labor are beginning to show their results. Self-support begins to seem a virtue to the colored people, and giving to others, a pleasure and luxury. This has long been true in the Indian field, and Bishop Hare reports this fall among other gifts of native Christians over $2000, contributed by the forty-eight societies of women banded together in the Woman's Auxiliary of South Dakota.

We are learning in new ways the value of coöperation, and during the past year have formed a pleasant compact with the women of the Connecticut Branch, by which they share with us the responsibility of Mrs. Payne's salary, while we help them in raising the salary of a teacher at Norfolk.

In the building up of mission stations and their support we have helped in various ways,—sometimes by money, sometimes by boxes of supplies. In our Southern missions garments are not only given to those who need, but are often sold at a low rate for the support of the mission, so that nothing can come amiss. Last year we asked for money especially, and many parishes kindly regarded our request; but let us say here that boxes are always welcome, and beg no parish to be deterred from letting us know the sort of help that it wishes to give.

Money we need, it is true. There are supplies that must be bought, and what shall we say to Bishop Hare when he writes of a visit to St. Andrew's station, within a few rods of the scene of the terrible Wounded Knee battle? Thirty-two dollars were handed to the Bishop towards a church. "We have waited," said one man. "We have worked," said a woman. The Bishop expressed satisfaction, but this was not enough. "Shall it be done, shall it be done now," they cried, and he asks us to share the cost of the little church, $1200. "One hundred dollars a month for the hospital," says Archdeacon Joyner. "Will not some fond person give us this?"

We have sometimes been criticized for making our report a statement of future needs rather than a record of the past. It is almost impossible, as we stand on the threshold of a new year, not to forget the things that are behind, so far as any achievement of our own is concerned, and for what has been done by our missionaries, a report gives no scope. As we think to-day of the past year, we must at least record the name of one laborer who will reap these earthly fields no more. For five years the Rev. Charles R. Stroh labored among his beloved Santees, and strange and sad to us is the painful close of his devoted life, which came just as he was looking forward with hospitable joy to the gathering of the Indian Convocation at his station this fall. But he knew and loved and served his people to the end, and for them what better comfort can we ask than that they should say to themselves what, in their simplicity, they wrote on the stone which marks the grave of one of their own Dakotas: "If we love and mind Jesus, we need not be afraid. God will never forget us, and He will always take care of us."

May we turn one moment, and fulfil our reputation by speaking of the future? The Dakota League asks money for special pledges, for scholarships, Mrs. Payne's salary, one year's schooling for Nicholas Ruleau, and for needs presented to us from time to time, as the appeal for St. Andrew's Chapel, S. D., and the Columbia Hospital. Small sums as well as large are welcome. We need also boxes of clothing for the families of clergymen, for Indian catechists, for schools, for general distribution, or for sale. We will try to suggest to any parishes or individuals work suited to their choice or ability.

We entreat those parishes which are working for the Indians or colored people to let us know what they intend to do, that we may not overstock one station and neglect others; and we thank all those who in any slightest way have ministered to those whom we are trying to serve.

For the Committee,

LUCY R. WOODS.

FOREIGN DIVISION.

TRADITION says that the Gospel was carried by the Apostle Thomas as far as China, but the Christian missionaries of the thirteenth century found no traces of it there. One of them exclaimed before the vast opposing fabric of heathenism: "O mighty fortress! When shall thy gates of unyielding brass be broken open?"

Last summer, in a church named for St. Thomas, were consecrated our new Bishops for China and Japan, and we cannot but rejoice that the final lot has fallen upon men already experienced workers in these very fields, and in every way approved by their eminent fitness. Our hearts go with them as they return "in the power of the Spirit" to take up the new honors and burdens of their Apostolic office. Oh, that we might in some small measure help faithfully to sustain their work!

Mrs. Boone, widow of the late beloved Bishop, asks in a recent letter, why it is that interest in missions has always to be "roused" among Church people; why they do not give with zeal and persistence! Alas! why is it so? Perhaps, partly because some fail to realize that it is not a matter of option, but of solemn and absolute obligation. Many persons who gladly give time and energy to works of religion, do not seem to remember that they are equally bound to give "of their substance," be it much or little, and that God accepts and blesses the small gift from the small store not less than the greater one from the greater means. Yet nothing is more plainly and universally enjoined, and the offertory is as truly a part of every Christian Liturgy as the prayer or the giving of thanks.

Even the Law, which was but the schoolmaster to bring us to Christ, made the giving of a tenth an absolute duty. Can any Christian dream that he loves God and "the brethren" if he does less than this? And the outside world, lying still in darkness—if we look at China, that vast Empire of four hundred million souls, with its "gates of unyielding brass," wide open now, we see an illimitable field white to the harvest. They ask us for a thousand new workers there, and this would mean but one to each walled city. A letter has come from Bishop Graves saying that he needs three priests and a woman worker at once to supply important places which should not be left vacant a moment longer than is absolutely unavoidable. We must help to send them, and if not a thousand more, as many as we can. China has a new claim on us now! Her people have been added to the number of those with whom we have politically played the part of "treacherous dealers," dealing "very treacherously." Let us see what Christian love can do to make good the wrong! New churches have been finished and equipped in the past year, and the work goes on with great encouragement. We must help to sustain and enlarge it with each new month! We cannot flag!

In Japan the outlook brightens steadily. It is called "the land of the Rising Sun," and every one who has at all followed the wonderful growth of free institutions and ideas there within the past few years, must be struck with the strange appropriateness of that name. It is impossible to doubt now that Japan will, in a comparatively short time, take her place before the world as a Christian nation. We have a noble work there which has matured so rapidly as to be really unique. Twenty-three years ago "the grain of mustard seed" was sown at Osaka! Now there are three parish churches there, six preaching chapels, two schools, an orphanage and a hospital. In Nara and Kyoto new centres have been formed, and in Tokyo, to quote the words of Mrs. Twing, "the work has attained such proportions that the branches almost overshadow and efface the parent stem." She says it may be compared to a banyan tree which roots itself afresh in each new place, and adds that nowhere abroad, except in Paris, has she met with so beautiful a Church service as in Tokyo. Miss Emery would like the Massachusetts Auxiliary to assume this year the entire support of one of the three women workers who have gone out from Massachusetts to Japan! Can we not easily do it? Surely nothing appeals more directly to us than the work of Mary Mailes in training "Bible women," who go into all homes as no man possibly could, carrying that Light, which, shining through the Gospels, shall burn away all their darkness. It costs a little over sixty dollars monthly for Miss Mailes' stipend, perhaps five or six cents apiece for each woman of the Massachusetts Auxiliary, if each should do her part. Are not the parishes willing to assume regularly this slight burden, quite imperceptible to individuals if all will only share it? Mr. Patton asks urgently for fifteen hundred dollars to build another church in Tokyo. Shall we not help to raise it for him as quickly as possible?

From Africa we are privileged to have with us this fall in America both Bishop Ferguson himself and our faithful Mrs. Brierley. They will tell us of their special needs, and surely we cannot afford to be backward in liberality toward a people who can claim from us so great a reparation for past wrongs as the people of Liberia. We want new scholarships there, we want new churches, and our faithful missionaries must have their hands more strongly held up. The people are responsive, they are intelligent; it is simply wonderful how children, taken out of the lowest savagery, develop strong intellectual and moral powers. The fiction of their incompetence is utterly disproved. Africa has a great future opening before her. There, as everywhere, the new generation must be our first thought and our unfailing encouragement. The twenty-six children of one poor little African Sunday school brought five dollars and fifty-six cents last year as their Easter offering. They had earned it by gathering palm kernels and by selling pine-apples, for four or five of which they receive only one cent. May we not emulate the zeal of these little ones, and take fresh hope from their love and self-sacrifice? Surely, in the touching words put up in their church with gold and scarlet lettering, by some other children in China, to express their joy at Christmas: "The light from the Manger Bed has shone throughout the world."

For the Committee,

JOSEPHINE HOFMAN,

Secretary.

MEXICAN AND HAITIAN DIVISION.

At the close of the previous year the General Convention, sitting as a Board of Missions, took the important step of committing itself decisively to the Mexican Work, and the approval and sympathy of the Church thus expressed have been felt as a strong support during the past year, in spite of the losses and changes which we have experienced.

In January Mrs. Hooker laid down her long life of loving service. The children and the friends who knew and loved her followed her to her quiet grave, and turned back again with sad hearts to the life which she had shielded and comforted. But although her last days were not brightened by the full assurance of the future stability of her Orphanage, the time was near for the last debt to be paid, and it now stands unencumbered, and the pleasant home is full of happy, busy children, under the wise and loving care of Miss Driggs, Mrs. Hooker's assistant for two years before her death. Miss Driggs has many plans and wishes for her work. She aims at the very best instruction for those who show intellectual ability, and at careful training for those who can be better fitted for house work or nursing. She needs sympathy and support. More scholarships are greatly desired, and no part of the Mexican work will more fully repay whatever is spent upon it. We are thankful to say that this diocese through a few of its members made generous contributions towards clearing off the mortgages on the Orphanage.

The Rev. Mr. Gordon, who has labored for six years in Mexico, and has brought about the present excellent state of the work, was obliged, on account of ill health, due to the climate of Mexico, to withdraw early in the year. It seemed impossible that any one should be found to take his place, but the Rev. Henry Forrester, one of Bishop Kendrick's clergymen, whose knowledge of the Spanish language particularly fitted for the work, was appointed in Mr. Gordon's place. Mr. Forrester is settled with his family in the city of Mexico, not far from the Orphanage, and Miss Driggs writes that his presence is a great comfort and help in her work. He has been cordially received, too, by the clergy, and has already shown his energy and wisdom as supervisor of the mission. Mr. Forrester is expected to be with us, and to speak to us of his work at the anniversary meeting.

The Dean Gray Memorial School has been continued through the year, and as Sig. Bustamente, who has had the oversight of it, writes: "This school is very important, because it ministers not only to the children of our brothers, but to those of many Roman Catholics. The children are taught to read the Bible, and often carry home their new Testaments and read them to their families." This school is now temporarily closed on account of a change of teachers, but Mr. Forrester writes that work will be resumed there as soon as a suitable teacher can be found, and the school can be put on a firm basis.

Mr. Forrester's impressions of the people in Mexico have been the same as Mr. Gordon's. He is struck by their simplicity, their devotion to the Church, the earnestness with which they worship and the sacrifices they are glad to make for their religion. He is impressed, too, by the great need of the Gospel of Christ, in both town and country, among the children and the grown people, and he sees countless opportunities for extending the work if the means can be increased.

We are glad and thankful to report to you that your contributions from this Diocese have been larger than for years. We have great cause for thankfulness that in all the changes and losses of the past year the work has prospered, and we look forward with hope to a glorious future for the Mexican Mission.

The other department in charge of your Committee, the Haitian Church, has necessarily been at a standstill to all outward appearance. Until a church can be built in Port au Prince, no visible result can be reported for Bishop Holly's work in the city. The missionaries in charge of country congregations are still laboring among their people, and Bishop Holly and his family are still looking forward to a return to the city. A small building has been put up on the land where the new church is to stand, and when the Bishop is once more in town, as he hopes to be soon, services can be held, and the congregations kept together. Want of means cripples all the activities of the Haitian Church. The Christian spirit is there, and so are the willing workers. May we beg of you for more generous contributions and a warmer interest in the mission for the coming year. Two barrels of household needs have been furnished, but money is needed to start the work of the Church. We must remember how dark the days were for the Mexican work, and how the faith and courage of the native clergy, and help sent steadily by this Auxiliary, have been, under God's care, the means of the well-established mission now existing in Mexico. Let us, then, not be disheartened about Haiti, but try to work for that mission this year with new courage and zeal.

For the Committee,

FLORENCE DIX,

Secretary.
