Ninth Annual Report of the Nebraska Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions.

Annual Meeting in Trinity Cathedral, Omaha,
Tuesday, May 28th, 1895.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

In reporting the ninth year of the Nebraska Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary, I have the consciousness of a certain monotony of routine in our work that is difficult to avoid in these yearly reports, and yet must be avoided, for where the spirit of true enthusiasm is there can be no monotony, however often the story of work begun in faith and finished in love may be repeated. As there is no monotony to us in the order of the universe, the natural succession of days and nights, so there should be none in the spiritual order, the reasonable service of men and women in the household of God. Every day and every year may have its same succession of duties and accomplishment, but, with an interest that never flags, a zeal that increases rather than grows threadbare, should we pursue the course marked out for us among the constellations of the heavenly world.

This year has not been one of any very marked advance with us, so far as we can see. We have no new Branches to report, and one formed last year has dissolved, making us a total of twenty-three. There are a number of places where we ought to have Branches, notably in Columbus, where one is much needed to consolidate and direct the work in the western part of the Diocese, but until our clergy and our women come to understand that they can never do their best work in their own parish until they have stretched out their hands to the larger interests of the Church outside, never in real conflict with, though often over reaching and changing the direction of the parish work, we shall be hampered by the narrow spirit of parochialism that cannot look higher than its own church spire and so fails to see the others.

The quarterly meetings were of great interest. The first was held November 14th. Mrs. Worthington, who had been at the Missionary Council, returned full of enthusiasm for foreign missions and gave a more distinctly foreign direction to our work than ever before, in the two objects of Miss Crummer's support and the pledge to the Deaconess Home in Shanghai, both of which, undertaken with some misgiving, have been successfully carried through. It was at this meeting we had the interesting talk on India, by Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, natives of Bombay, who have worked as missionaries there, and besides giving an interesting account of native life and character, illustrated what they said by showing the costumes and rendering several very sweet native hymns. Mr. Johnson also addressed the members on how the caste system exists not only in India but also in America. At the quarterly meeting held February 19th., we had the privilege of hearing Bishop Tuttle on the scope and power of the Woman's Auxiliary. He gave us a valuable and much needed lesson on woman's place and privilege in the Church of God, and made us justly proud of our name, "Auxiliaries" in such a service. He conducted a retreat for the women of the Auxiliary on the following day, and many found it a preparation for the Lent that followed. Our thanks are due the Dean and the Trinity Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary for their kind hospitality on that day.

There were four meetings of the Missions class during the winter, the first one being held December 13th. The work began with a study of the growth of the English Church from earliest ages down to the Missionary movement of the Nineteenth Century. This was followed, in the second class held January 16th, by a series of papers on the development and history of the American Church. On March 13th, Indian Missions were taken up, and the class on April 17th, made a study of Foreign Missions, their history and the present work of our Church in China and Africa. There was a great deal of time and labor spent in the preparation of these papers, and all who have attended these classes have felt the benefit of a wider knowledge of the work. We must know about things before we can be interested in them, and the learning about missions is one of the prime objects of our organization. Our president is very anxious that the Branches outside of Omaha should have some benefit from this class, and will send any of the papers desired at the request of any Branch. Our country Branches sometimes complain that they have so little to acquaint them with and interest them in the general work of the Church, but is it altogether the fault of the officers? Do they not realize that it is hardly possible for the general officers to go into a parish and hold a meeting with missionary talks without invitation from either the rector or the president of the Branch. I think if a few more such definite invitations were sent to our president, they would meet with a hearty response, for there is nothing she is more deeply interested in than the development and sustaining of our weaker and more distant Branches.

In the latter part of December, the president and secretary held a special meeting in Beatrice. About twenty-five ladies were present and a good deal of enthusiasm was manifested. It was a very pleasant experience to the visitors who met many members of the Branch and learned much about the local conditions of the work that they could not otherwise have known.

The Branch of the Good Shepherd has had two meetings for studying Missionary work. The Advent meeting, which the vice-president and the secretary were invited to attend, had China for its subject, one of especial interest to us now that we have a personal interest in Miss Crummer, who is working there

It is rather for the treasurer than the secretary to speak of the hard times. One word, perhaps, I may say. Man's necessity is God's opportunity, and while our harvests lie blighted upon our parched fields, His harvests may be springing up abundantly in our stricken and softened hearts. Certainly the list of boxes sent out would seem to confirm this hope. They are treble in number and nearly double in value those prepared and sent last year. Of course a few of these were June boxes, really prepared last year, but sent too late to be reported at the Annual meeting. There are twenty-nine boxes in all, with a valuation approximating $675.00. Just one word about the valuation of boxes. It has to be expressed approximately in figures. Those who make up boxes can best do this. As a general rule, with new material, the work doubles the value of material; of course this is not the case in household linen where there is very little work. Then one half cost of material counted for the work would be fair, unless the Branch has a regular scale of prices for such work. With second hand garments those who look over them can tell about what they are worth, and it is very difficult for the general secretary to set a value on boxes she has never seen, even when list of contents is given. Not knowing cost of material she may easily over estimate or under estimate, and it would be of great assistance to her to have the different Branches set a value upon their box as they send it out. Of these boxes here noted, four were sent by our Junior Auxiliaries. It is very much to be desired that the work and interest of our young people should be fostered and encouraged by every means in our power. Every Branch that has a Junior department should show some interest in it, members meeting with it from time to time, telling them missionary stories, trying to win their interest—it is easy to do it with children—to the great work of the church at home and abroad. And what is the duty of those Branches that have no Junior Auxiliaries? Of course if there are absolutely no children in a parish, they may hold themselves excused. A childless church has no future and dying with the present generation how can it work for that in which it can have no part? Let each be her own judge in this matter. Alas, how many of us are self condemned!

I come now to the hardest part of all—the good-byes. My work in this Branch of the Auxiliary has been a great pleasure to me, and while I have to regret many mistakes, much waste that I might have saved, I have to thank you for an unwavering patience and a faith in me that has often been a sustaining power to me. It is you who have taught me about the missionary work of our dear Church, receiving me into your number when I came here a stranger and ignorant of so many things that a born daughter of the Church knows by instinct, ignorant most of all of the Woman's Auxiliary and its work for God. I shall not soon forget either the lessons or my teachers and guides, and praying God's Holy Spirit may ever guide us all into a wider knowledge, a fuller light, a richer life, I give up my work among you to better hands than mine, perhaps more zealous ones. Let us hope so, and the consuming fire of a zeal for God's house render our souls and bodies a living sacrifice, which is after all only our reasonable service.

Respectfully Submitted.
