JUNIOR DEPARTMENT.

The Junior Auxiliary has only five branches in Tennessee at present, but we hope in another year to report many more. Those branches already in existence seem to be zealous, as they send very encouraging reports of work accomplished during the past year. At the annual meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary last May, during the session of our Diocesan Convention, reports were read from all the branches, and were most gratifying. St. Luke's, Idlewild, had been formed only a few weeks, so could report no contributions, but we feel sure that next year theirs will equal any of the others. We hope to have a Babies' Branch also formed in Tennessee. It is astonishing to read how much has been given in other dioceses by the wee lambs of Christ's flock. The little hands taught to drop pennies in the mite chests and then folded in prayer for the missionaries, will surely call down double blessings from our Heavenly Father, and the lesson learned so early will bring forth fruit during all their after lives.

It is hoped that the members of the Woman's Auxiliary will recognize the Juniors as a department of their society, and not a separate organization, and will lend their assistance in the effort to interest children and young people in the missionary work of the Church. We would urge the Juniors to read and study about missions. Much information may be obtained from the children's missionary paper, "The Young Christian Soldier," and from the leaflets issued by the Junior Auxiliary Publishing Company, Hartford, Conn.

REPORT

Of the Correspondent of the Church Periodical Club.

The Church Periodical Club continues its work, and before enumerating the very meager array of figures which represent its work in Tennessee for the past year, I would like to take you to the rooms of the club in the Church Missions House in New York and let you learn from the faithful secretary of the immense work and needs of the Church Periodical Club. With the luxury of libraries in our midst we can scarcely imagine the pleasure that a new book or magazine gives to those who cannot afford to buy them, and are thus supplied by this club. In Tennessee we have only eight parishes working with us. Of contributors we have about thirty, and during the past year we have sent out sixty-five periodicals and one hundred and four odd numbers of old magazines. Can we not do much better this year? Any one who can afford to subscribe to a Church paper or magazine can surely spend the money for the mailing of it when finished with to some less fortunate person to whom it will be a great help and pleasure. If there is no librarian in your parish (for I have had great difficulty in persuading any one to take the position), write to me. Tell me what papers, etc., you have and are willing to send, and I will get addresses of some missionary from the office of the club in New York. All I ask is that it will be sent regularly and the postage paid. If there are any who have no papers, etc., to send away, they can help the good work on by contributing 25 cents annually. The money will be used by the general secretary in New York in paying freight and express on packages of books, etc., which are sent to be distributed.

Eleven or twelve of our own clergy in Tennessee are recipients of its benefits, and I would earnestly recommend it to the thoughtful consideration of the members of the Auxiliary. It is sad to think of the reading matter that is thrown week by week in the waste basket for which God's children are hungering. Let us remember that the same voice which is so gracious in commendation may also be heard in the reproach, "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye did it not unto me."

Respectfully submitted.

FANNY G. HODGSON,

Correspondent Church Periodical Club in Tennessee.

Today closes another year's work of the Woman's Auxiliary of this Diocese, and again we come to lay before you and each other the results, mingled with hopes and visions of future efforts.

The reception of the Woman's Auxiliary in any parish brings to it a special blessing; the thought and love necessary to make such a gathering a success can but give strength to the laborers and lead up to spiritual heights. Let this word of appreciation and praise fall upon each member of the parishes of the past and of the future who have and will reach out to the Woman's Auxiliary with loving hearts and open doors, and in return bring to each a four-fold blessing.

The privileges and joys of parish and diocesan life have their roots in the fertile soil of the missionary zeal of our forefathers, and nothing but a narrow selfishness could close our eyes to the fact that all we have as Christians has been won for us by the love, courage and sacrifice of men who have spent their lives in the mission fields. It is therefore the duty imposed by our heritage to be active in missionary work.

Again, the life and example of a priest in the pioneer work of the Church appeal to the highest qualities of our nature. Among all the nations of the earth there is not found one where bravery, courage, and unselfishness in some form are not held in the highest esteem. The hero is universally revered, and on him a people's peculiar and distinctive honors are bestowed. Now, in the truest and best sense, the missionary is a hero; he possesses all the elements of heroism, love for his fellow man, love of God, courage and self-sacrifice, and shall it remain for Christians alone to show less regard for their heroes? Certainly not, for it is the part of Christianity to impart and sustain the divine qualities of love and sacrifice, and small indeed must be that man in whose nature the heroic awakens no emotion and finds no support. Let us therefore give these pioneers of Christ the very best, for in honoring them we honor the man Christ Jesus. Let no mere sentiment waste itself in empty words; let no faded honors be theirs while they carry forward the victory. Let us give them support and show them that we do appreciate their zeal and love for the cause of Christ and his Church.

Since our last annual meeting we have suffered a very sad bereavement in the death of our beloved Bishop. The severing of that silver cord sent a thrill of pain throughout the land not soon to be forgotten. Could our dear friend speak to us now, might there not come to us such words of inspiration for our work that hearts would be brave again and arms strong to labor in earnest for our dear Lord, so that with him, in God's good time, we might hope to sing an endless Hallelujah?

HESTER L. SHORTRIDGE.
